This volume focused on the love triangle Chikage is in as an adult. It was an important storyline since much from her past was revealed, but at times, the art was awkward, and Chikage's insecurity is borderline psychotic. I find I enjoy her more as Akari. This is probably by design. After all, if Chikage wasn't so pathetic, there wouldn't be a need to turn her into Akari. However, I have to wonder if the mangaka, Tanemura, doesn't think much of Chikage either. She doesn't draw her as well as she does Akari. In addition, the story drags whenever it focuses on Chikage. I'm having a hard time seeing them as the same person. As Chikage grows from her experiences as Akari, I hope that she becomes a more likable heroine. At this point in the story, she's still a neurotic mess.
