He also exchanged cordial and supportive letters with many reformers, including Philipp Melanchthon and Heinrich Bullinger. In addition to the Institutes, he wrote commentaries on most books of the Bible, as well as theological treatises and confessional documents. He regularly preached sermons throughout the week in Geneva. Calvin was influenced by the Augustinian tradition, which led him to expound the doctrine of predestination and the absolute sovereignty of God in salvation of the human soul from death and eternal damnation. Calvin's writing and preachings provided the seeds for the branch of theology that bears his name. The Reformed, Congregational, and Presbyterian churches, which look to Calvin as the chief expositor of their beliefs, have spread throughout the world.

Customer Reviews

Quotes from this entry include: "...all the sufferings to which the life of men is subject and obnoxious, are necessary exercises, by which God partly invites us to repentance, partly instructs us in humility, and partly renders us more cautious and more attentive in guarding against the allurements of sin for the future." "Hence the majority of teachers, in desiring to yield to the corrupt wishes of the world, adulterate the word of God." "Moses, therefore, declares that the Law is not hard to be understood, so as to demand inordinate fatigue in its study; but that God speaks distinctly and explicitly, and that nothing is required of them but diligent application. Moreover, he thus takes away from them every pretext for ignorance, since, with so much light, they cannot err, except by willfully blinding themselves, or shutting their eyes. Whence, also, we gather, how impious are the babblings of the Papists that the Scripture is beset by thick darkness, and how wicked is their driving away the people from approaching it, as if it were some labyrinth." "...pride and vanity are opposed to the holy confidence which relies upon God alone; for there is nothing more difficult to the flesh than to trust in God alone, and the world is always full of proud and haughty men, who, soothing themselves with vain allurements, would soon corrupt the minds of the godly, if this arrest were not laid upon them, to restrain, as with a bridle, these erroneous and extravagant opinions." "Thus, in our own times, the Papists, choosing to have a divided and mangled Christ, have none, and are therefore 'removed from Christ.' They are full of superstitions, which are directly at variance with the nature of Christ.
